

Cloud Platform Advisors

Azure Advisors

Overview

Azure Advisors is a private, invitation-only community for organizations who desire a closer connection with the Microsoft engineers responsible for Azure and related services. Membership is renewed periodically based upon active participation and other factors. The Azure Advisors community is designed to facilitate the exchange of technical feedback, ideas and best practices between engineering teams and community members. This community is not to be used for sales, marketing, or free technical support.

Connect with Us

If you have questions regarding Azure Advisors, please reach out to Cloud Platform Advisors

Benefits

Members benefit by participating in Azure Advisors in the following ways:

- Direct engagement with Microsoft engineers
- Early roadmap disclosures
- Priority access to private previews, events, and new groups within Azure Advisors
- Early access to technical content
- Architectural best practices and guidance
- PR and Networking opportunities with Microsoft and other Azure Advisors

Requirements

In return, organizations and their representatives are required to:

- Sign a standard non-disclosure agreement with Microsoft, if a valid NDA does not already exist
- Join the external Yammer network and sign the Acceptable Use Policy
- Be a technical contact, actively engaged in managing Azure projects and production workloads
- Provide information about solutions and projects that leverage various aspects of Azure and/or related service:
- Actively participate in groups and scheduled events by sharing best practices, asking questions, responding to surveys, etc.
- Actively test Azure related improvements and submit feedback